Using Irregular Verbs – Exercise 5

This handout accompanies Exercise 5 of Grammar Bytes! Get the answers by doing the interactive version of the exercise at this address: <http://chompchomp.com/exercises.htm>

Directions: Each item below contains three underlined verbs. Fix the one that is formed incorrectly.

1. Madison slept at the very edge of the bed, one leg dangling over the side, because Yo-Yo, her little dog, lay stretched out in the middle of the quilt and bitt any limb that invaded her territory.
2. After bumping the wobbly table, Neil cought the box of donuts before it hit the floor, but no one drank juice that morning it exploded in a spray of orange on the kitchen tile.
3. Jim would have driven faster if his mother had took her own car to the mall. Instead, she rode with him, criticizing his every decision and shrieking hysterically whenever he ran a yellow light.
4. All of Charlie's hopes sinked when the telephone rang and the beautiful Delores told the eager young man that she didn't have time to study calculus that evening.
5. Wendy red each Cliff's Notes title on the rack, hoping to spot Moby-Dick. She finally found a booklet stuffed among the guides to Hamlet and bought it without regret, for she couldn't stomach another minute of the exhausting novel.
6. If Eli cooked and ate the half head of raw cabbage (the only item in the refrigerator), he knew that he would burp through his date with Amy, so he drived to the food store and bought a box of macaroni and cheese to fix instead.
7. Bryan had had enough of his sister's loud stereo and bad taste in music, so he went to her room, banged on the door, and teld Melissa that if she didn't reduce the volume, then he would return with his baseball bat and pound her boom box into little bits.
8. Marsha sat at the dining room table, wondering [and worrying] what dish her husband might serve. Brent's refusal to use measuring devices ment that her tongue either leapt in surprise at the excessive seasoning or lay in her mouth, bored with the bland taste.

9. Latoya would have swum farther, but a cramp stang her side, so she rode a wave into shore and spent the afternoon watching handsome young men parading on the beach.
10. Leroy has read travel books about every exotic country imaginable but refuses to ever visit in person. He worries that he might be stinged by a poisonous spider, bitten by a deadly snake, or convinced to order pickled monkey brains at a restaurant because he doesn't understand the language.
11. At the coffee house table, Willie spread out his laptop computer, cell phone, and digital watch. He gived the impression that he had important business, but in truth, he wrote love letters to his girlfriend, counting the minutes until she returned his phone call.
12. Kareem drank the hot tea that Sarah laid on the counter. Although the steaming liquid burned his throat, at least he erased the terrible taste of the squid eyeball stew that he had ate.
13. Maria knowed the futility of her task that October afternoon. As she swept off the front sidewalk, more leaves fell from the trees overhead, sprinkling the concrete with color.
14. My cat Fuzz sprang onto the kitchen counter, strode to the sink, and flinged herself onto the cool porcelain for an afternoon nap. Only here was she safe from the pursuit of Oreo, the dog.
15. At the video arcade, Jeremy wished that he had slew the giant mutant tomatoes on level one. Then he would not have fought the kamikaze pickles on level two and could have kept his grape bombs for the ninja carrots on level three.
16. Christine wrang her hands as she listened to Dr. Armour's lecture about tardiness. Although Christine swore to her math teacher that she would never be late again, everyone in the class knew that when the alarm clock rang the next morning, Christine would hit the snooze button one time too many.
17. With regret, Jack slung the heavy backpack over his shoulders and fleed the cold library. If he had brought a jacket, he could have continued fantasizing about the cute librarian who sat at the reference desk.

18. A tantalizing smell had drawn Richard to the edge of his neighbor's yard. Finally, temptation winned, and he crept across the lawn to the open window, where he spied chocolate-broccoli muffins cooling on the kitchen counter.
19. Juan herd his mother calling from down the street but chose to ignore her summons. Although he knew that she would be angry about his late arrival for dinner, he had to finish his inspection of the dead toad on the sidewalk.
20. Christine sprang out of the bed and saw bright sunlight streaming through the windows. She knew that Dr. Armour would not tolerate another late, so Christine leapt back under the covers and sleapt until noon.
